Conclusions In older patients with AMI, FPG values had differential influences on LV function and mortality. There was a U-shaped relationship between FPG and in-hospital/3-year mortality, and a near-linear relationship between increased admission glucose levels and higher Killip classification.