induced by anti-OX40 mAb, while NFATc1 inhibitor markedly suppressed production of IL-4.

Conclusions This study suggests that OX40-OX40L interaction regulates the expression of NFATc1, which may play a critical role in atherosclerotic plaque formation, which might also have implications with pathophysiology of atherosclerosis.